

Testimonials

After graduating from the MSU Educational Leadership program, I know I have the leadership skills and educational knowledge necessary to guide a school toward excellence. I would highly recommend this program to anyone considering pursuing a Master's in Educational Leadership.
John Stillson, Principal Central Elementary Helena, MT

Going into the program I wasn't sure if I was ready to lead a school. Coming out of the program I interviewed for two superintendent positions and was offered both positions. The program works. It works because of the passion and dedication of the professors who want to build strong leaders who will change our educational system for the better.
Aaron Skogen, Superintendent Geraldine, MT

The Educational Leadership program at MSU is without comparison. The faculty, courses, field experience, activities and assignments provide future administrators with the skills needed to step into a leadership role and create positive change for the children of Montana.
Trish Klock, H.S. Teacher, Helena High Helena, MT

The Rural Education Cohort

The MSU Rural Education Leadership Cohort is a partnership between Montana State University's Education Leadership Program and the Montana Rural Education Association and its member schools.

The program delivers a "contextualized" master's degree and principal licensure experience.

Our mission is to recruit and train exemplary teachers who will become the next generation of school leaders for Montana's rural communities.
